
Program Maps

Program Maps show you which courses to take and when to take them. They're a semester-by-semester guide through your degree, with built-in checkpoints so you and your advisor can tell whether you're on track. If you're still deciding on a program, they're a quick way to see what the coursework actually looks like.

A few things to know: Program Maps are advising tools, not official degree requirements. They recommend a path, including specific electives worth considering, but they don't limit your options. If a course counts toward your degree under the official program of study, it still counts, even if it's not listed on the map.
