

Winn, Billy Papers (MC 297)

Biographical Note

William Waddell Winn was born in 1938 to Dr. John H. Winn (1888-1951) and his wife Dorothy Clason Winn, and grew up in the Overlook area of Columbus, Georgia. He graduated from Georgia State University with a in history. He married Elinor Brandt and moved to Alaska where he worked at various jobs before moving to Atlanta in 1964. He began working at the Atlanta Journal that same year, where he was active in covering the Civil Rights struggles. He left Atlanta in 1970 and freelanced for eight years for such publications as Rolling Stone, New Orleans Magazine, Argosy and New South. He returned to Atlanta in 1980. In 1987 Winn returned to Columbus to write a book about the Stocking Stranglings of the 1970. He left the projected book unfinished and took a job with the Columbus Ledger-Enquirer on the condition that he could continue freelancing.
