

Representative Jack Brinkley Collection (MC 4)

Biographical Information

Born in the South Georgia town of Faceville, Jack Brinkley graduated from Young Harris College and then taught in public schools for two years. After serving as an Air Force pilot from 1951 to 1959, he returned to college, receiving his law degree from the University of Georgia in 1959. Having met his future wife, Lois Kite of Phenix City, while serving at Lawson Air Field, the Brinkleys returned to the Chattahoochee Valley, and he began practicing law in Columbus in 1959. In 1964, he was elected to the Georgia House of Representatives and just two years later won a seat in the U.S. House of Representatives. He served there until his retirement in 1982. He was the first 3rd District Congressman in the 20th century to live in Columbus, and when he retired was the senior member of the Georgia House delegation. Given his military background and the nature of his district he was alert to the needs of Fort Benning and Robins Air Force Base and to the needs of the military personnel and veterans in his district. He served in prominent positions on both the House Armed Services Committee and the House Veterans' Affairs Committee. In 1970 he was responsible for having the site of National Cemetery shifted from Atlanta to Fort Mitchell, Alabama. Brinkley always thought of himself as an independent Democrat and cast his vote according to the issue rather than according to the party line.
