1. List at least four of your most meaningful 3000 and 4000-level Communication courses and explain what made them meaningful to you.

2. List department-related extracurricular activities and projects in which you have been involved while in our program. Please include service/experiential learning components in courses, internships, practicums, and volunteer-related opportunities.

3. List your most meaningful service-learning project and provide a paragraph-long explanation of why you identified the course and the project. Your answer should reflect the following three things: the meaningful nature of the work experience, your assessment of the impact your work made not only on you but on your agency, and the communication presentation/production skills you utilized during this specific project.

4. Attach a separate one-page letter addressed to the Barbara Hart Memorial Scholarship Selection Committee that includes the following three items: how receiving this scholarship would be beneficial to you, how this scholarship fits in with your career goals, and what role does the department play in your academic success.

Please have a professor who has had you in class sign off on your application.
