219012	Fall 2014	THEA-4445	When the Grid Falls	In the production on "Mr. Burns, A Post-Electric Play," our world is one without electricity. The country's grid has fallen into chaos after a nuclear explosion, multiple fires, and disease. Thousands have died and are trying to survive, and their only source of entertainment is re-enacting Simpsons episodes. So what would it be like without electricity? How does a nuclear explosion work? What would happen in a situation such as this? I plan to answer these questions as a part of my contract.
