283014	Fall 2015	NURS-3175	Patients with Ileostomies and Changes In Medications Administered	This project will be a research paper that explores the different modifications that must be made to accommodate patients with ileostomies while administering different medications. I will research the difference between adverse effects and side effects, and how a nurse and doctor must be aware of the anatomical change of a patient with an ileostomy bag. They will need to be extra cautious because certain side effects that would be okay and even sometimes wanted for a patient with all of their intestines can be fatal for an ileostomy patient.
