Contract	Term	Contract Title	Course	Description
354083	Fall 2017	Application of Accounting Information Systems	ACCT 3135	I will create instructional videos pertaining to different topics in QuickBooks and Access, two accounting information systems (AIS) commonly used, to use as learning tools in Accounting Information Systems and lower-level Accounting courses. The videos will cover topics that students typically have more difficulty with, such as the utilization of internal controls within AIS and recording transactions within the programs, rather than simple navigation of the programs. Although the videos will focus on the real-world application of the different AIS and how they are used, I will also include academic research presented in the form of a written one-page summary of my findings about current updates/issues pertaining to the specific part of the system covered in each video. In addition to creating and posting the instructional videos, I will answer questions from students about the content of each video through a discussion board.
