Spring 2020	COMM 3242	Content Analysis of News Coverage of #MeToo Articles	For my project, I would like to conduct a research analysis of news coverage and media writings in relation to the MeToo movement. Specifically, I would study the cases of Matt Lauer and Roger Ailes, due to their distant careers working in media at NBC and Fox News. Both of these powerful men were protected for years from losing their jobs by these media companies, even when multiple women complained about their inappropriate behavior towards them. My essay would breakdown the progression of media as a cover-up and gatekeeper of sexual harassment cases, to the microphone for victims to share their stories with the public, which is what it seems to have evolved to today. Basically, the media covered up so much for so long, yet the power of media is what made it possible for women to feel safe to come forward.
