Come Explore About the School of Policy, Justice, and Public Safety

Tomorrow's leaders will decide how the world responds to historic challenges. Addressing issues such as climate change, national security, criminal justice reform, and health policy will take a new generation of insightful, innovative thinkers.

At CSU, you'll develop the skills you need to become an effective change-maker. Pursue a Bachelor of Science degree in political science or a Master of Public Administration (MPA) degree with concentrations in either government administration or justice administration.

The School of Policy, Justice, and Public Safety will champion your success every step of the way. Learn hands-on through internship programs at the local, state, national, and international levels. As a graduate, you'll be prepared for advanced study or ready to launch a successful career in government, business, or nonprofit organizations.
