Columbus State University is committed to ensuring the academic and personal success of our students. To best fulfill this commitment, the University requires first-year students to live in on-campus housing for their first year. As such, the Department of Residence Life will reserve an on-campus assignment for all undergraduate, first-year students who are required.

Students who begin their enrollment during the summer term are required to live on campus for the following fall and spring semesters. Students enrolling for the first time in the fall must live on campus for both the fall and spring semesters. Students who begin in the spring are required to live on campus for the spring semester only. Students participating in dual enrollment are excluded from this requirement until the semester following their high school graduation.

Members of the Housing Appeals Committee is review on a yearly basis.

Decisions of the appeals committee will be final, and students will be notified electronically via their CSU email address.

Non-Compliance

Failure to comply with the First Year Live-On Requirement, or to obtain an approved exemption through the established process, may result in the following actions:

- Administrative Hold: A hold may be placed on the student's account, preventing class registration, transcript release, or access to other University services until compliance is achieved and/or the student checks into housing.
- Financial Liability: Students may be billed for the full cost of first year on-campus housing for the required term(s).

Students are strongly encouraged to submit their housing application early to avoid non-compliance. Failure to complete the housing application by the first day of classes each semester may result in housing charges being added to the student's account.
