Request Process

To ensure consistency, oversight, and an effective use of university resources, this process establishes an institution-wide process for submitting, reviewing, and approving camps and conferences.

This process applies to all university-affiliated and non-affiliated groups requesting to be hosted on CSUs campus. This includes university departments (e.g., Academic Affairs, Athletics, Student Life & Development, and Continuing Education), as well as third-party or community organizations.

Resources

To make your experience easier, Columbus State University created a guide that includes key resources to help make your event successful and ensure a smooth planning process. This resource guide is designed for groups interested in hosting camps and conferences at CSU and provides instructions, policies, expectations, and best practices for navigating areas such as space reservations, housing accommodations, dining services, and programs involving minors on campus. Our goal is to support event organizers with consistency, compliance, and a clear point of reference, while campus offices remain available to offer additional guidance and support as needed.
